

FEATURES OF THE MassageEnergy System

The MassageEnergy Pain-X Pro table/bed incorporates the principles of Chiropractic, massage, far infrared therapy, acupressure and acupuncture. In addition to keeping the body in shape, continuous use of the bed will provide numerous health benefits.

Chiropractic

Chiropractic medicine revolves around the principle that the body can heal itself when it's systems are properly aligned and allowed to operate without impediment. The MassageEnergy bed restores structural integrity, relieves nerve interference and gently realigns the vertebrae. The bed is also a full spinal decompression table in that it decompresses each vertebrae one by one relieving the pressure held in the discs and nerves.

Massage

The MassageEnergy bed uses the ancient practice of muscle manipulation as a means of promoting proper blood flow, muscle relaxation and flexibility. The internal jade massage heads automatically massage muscles and tendons around the spine, relieving tension and helping energy flows. Massaging the spinal area relaxes hardened nerve roots and improves the circulation of energy. This eases chronic muscle pain, speeds recovery from injury, improves concentration and promotes a general sense of rest and well being.

Acupressure (finger pressure)

The combination of acupressure and heat will boost your energy level. According to Oriental medicine, the human body has 365 acupressure points, and among those, the bed concentrates on the vital acupuncture points around the spine. Pressure applied to specific 'pressure points' temporarily block "chi", restoring proper pathways and flushing out toxins that have built up during the imbalance. The bed uses the body's own weight in combination with heated bulbs and jade massage heads to achieve this same effect. This unique combination of heated bulbs and jade massage heads creates far infrared rays that stimulate acupressure points 7 centimeters deep into the tissue.

Acupuncture

For the past 3,000 years, acupuncture has remained the most popular medical practice among Oriental medical practitioners. The purpose is to stimulate the activity of the nerve systems by inserting a needle. MassageEnergy's thermal treatment mimics the benefits of acupuncture without the discomfort of inserting a needle into your body. The light and heat perform the same function as a needle.

Far Infrared Rays

Using light bulbs and Jade caps produces more effective heat and far infrared rays than conventional methods. Our bed's patented technology uses far infrared rays to stimulate blood cells at a molecular level - speeding up tissue repair in damaged muscles. For more than 30 years, the far infrared rays have been used to treat patients, and the treatment has proven to be very successful. Just imagine how the jade massage heads will target the proper areas on your back and loosen all of your tight muscles. At the same time, the soothing warmth of the jade massage will make you feel relaxed and comfortable. You will feel healthier, fresher and more alive than ever before.

Jade Therapy

Oriental scholars believe that jade heals stressed organs and discharges toxins. They also believe that jade slows the process of cell aging and has the ability to strengthen the body's natural defenses and healing power. Jade contains vital elements for the human body such as minerals, calcium, magnesium and water. In addition, it is known as a natural transmitter of far infrared rays. It is because of these important and valuable benefits that our beds contain Jade Massage Heads.